

Dr Elliot Freeman

Dr Elliot Freeman is a Melbourne based Gastroenterologist and Hepatologist with a special interest in liver disease. He investigates and manages patients with all gastrointestinal disorders, consulting at Hobson Healthcare, Werribee and performing Gastroscopy and Colonoscopy at Hobson Healthcare, Werribee and Altona

Dr Freeman graduated with Honours from Monash University in 2013 and completed his advanced Gastroenterology training at The Alfred and St Vincent's Hospitals, culminating in a two-year Clinical Hepatology Fellowship.

After COVID got in the way of his 2021 overseas fellowship at Edinburgh's The Royal Infirmary, he has branched out to Melbourne's Western Suburbs as well as West Gippsland, while continuing to hone his hepatology sub-specialty skills at The Alfred Hospital.
